A recent visitor to Gednev said: "You seem to have a great amount of outdoors up here!" The description is very apt. In fact, the only way you can get away from outdoors at Gedney is to go indoors. The Gedney location is so open, so isolated, and gives on so broad an expanse of farmland and fallow that everybody at Gedney is just a radio station for the pure ether wave of the great outdoors!

Come to Gedn y for the ozone of the old outdoors!

BUSINESS NOTES AND TRADE NEWS

Electrical Trade Buying Yarns -New Wool Prices Expected to Be Made Soon.

The local cotton yarn market displayed yesterday increased activity and manufacturer reported a considerable volume of business from the electrical trade, which he said had covered its requirements well into September. Velvet and slik factors are observing the market more closely and buying more often, although in small quantities. The knit goods convention in Atlantic City and Philadelphia is diverting the interest of many knitting interests from the market, he said.

Expect New Wool Prices.

Expect New Wool Prices.

The American Woolen Company's withdrawal of all its lines for the time being has created much discussion in woolen circles. The prevailing opinion is that that action foreshadows further price advances. Although no information was forthooming from the offices of the company a belief pervades the trade that an announcement of some sort will be made to-day or to-morrow by the company. When its last price list was announced it was stated that the advances then made covered the difference in raw wool costs up to that time. Continued activity in the raw wool market and stiffening prices substantiate the opinion that a new level of prices will be announced soon.

To War on Commercial Fraud.

Realizing the growing evil of commercial fraud, particularly obtaining credit on false financial statements, credit interests in the Fourth avenue textile district have named an organization committee of six to work out plans to suppress that menace. An association, comprising nearly all large textile houses in the city, is to be organized. Its members will be pledged to follow dictates of the proposed plan and insint on certified public accountant audits before checking an account. A similar association, being organized in Chicago, has offered to cooperate with the local association.

Retail sales of petticoats have improved considerably in the last few weeks. White is the favorite color. In styles the straight line double paneled petticoats and the models with hems turned back to the hips are enjoying steady demand. In those models sateen and tub silk are leading materials. Itadium is considered by many as the most popular material for white silks. Wash satin appears to have been relegated to a less important position, although a small volume of sales is reported. Costume slips have met with favorable response from buyers. For these articles crepe back satin and crepe de Chine are mentioned as the leading materials. The demand seems to be for white silts for sport and summer frock wear and for black numbers for wear with black wilk sitts treeks worn in summer. silk street frocks worn in summer.

Raw Silk Prices Rising.

Raw Silk Prices Rising.

The local raw silk market is firm and its prices are rising steadily, according to H. L. Gwaltar & Co. Inc. Buyers are operating more freely and large interests are covering their requirements for several months ahead, denoting increasing confidence in the maintenance of present values. A steady demand for ready silk continues, specialties like new style Canton and 20-22 Japan commanding a considerable premium because of an exhausted supply in first hands. The Yokohama market is very strong and its prices are advancing. A good demand for American account exists and stocks, especially as regards high grade silks, are being reduced. The Canton market continues to lead in high prices and large purchases for American accounts have rendered reelers untractable. Increased activities in the Lyons and the Milan markets are reported. Business in the Shanghaf market is broadening.

Importers have advanced heavy chemicals prices and the domestic market is firmer. Home producers have announced higher prices for copper sulphate and oxalic acid. Imported products that are higher are prussiates of soda, potash, potassium carbonate and sodium chlorate. The expected settlement of the textile mill strike has not affected the dye market and few consumers are increasing their stocks to any extent. Essential oil buyers refuse to cover future requirements while the tariff remains unsettled and trading is more or less in small lots. Linseed oil is slightly easier. Charges in medicinal chemical prices are few and unimportant. Spot sugar of milk is higher.

Gray Goods Market Inactive.

Quiet conditions prevailed in yesterday's local gray goods market. Prices held to their recently advanced levels, but trading was rather narrow. In print cloths the standard 38½ inch 64-69s were offered at 8½ cents, but few buyers were interested at that price. On 68-72s the asking price was 9½ cents and on 60-48s 7½ cents. Light buying of 6.15 sheetings was done for 6½ cents, Buyers appear to be standing firm in their refusal to pay the higher prices on those goods, although values may be forced up by the raw cotton market's continued strength.

Burlap Quotations Hold Firm.

Little buying in yesterday's local burlap market was reported, although prices ware unchanged. Some consumers were said to be shopping around for odd sizes but the supply of such merchandise was small. The Calcutta market was reported, although prices ware unchanged. Some consumers were said to be shopping around for odd sizes but the supply of such merchandise was small. The Calcutta market closer, although not inclined to commit themselves beyond their immediate requirements. Foreign accounts are inquiring more freely, which has led the trade to believe that appreciable buying from those sources will develop soon.
